WELCOME TO COMMONFUND FORUM

Now in its 20th year, Commonfund Forum has grown into the must-attend annual conference for institutional investors. We have designed this Forum to focus on subjects that we believe are especially meaningful and timely for sophisticated investors. The sessions cover a range of topics broad enough to allow each participant to tailor the agenda to his or her interests. Use this agenda as a comprehensive guide to all the activities and sessions at Commonfund Forum.

We look forward to spending the next couple of days with you!

A Passion for Leadership: Lessons from Fifty Years of Public Service

Mediterranean Ballrooms 4/5

Opening remarks and introduction: Catherine Keating, President and CEO, Commonfund

Followed by remarks and discussion with keynote speaker Dr. Robert Gates, U.S. Secretary of Defense (2006-2011)

One of the most respected leaders in recent U.S. history, Dr. Robert Gates served eight U.S. presidents, influencing U.S. intelligence and defense policies over the past four and a half decades from the Cold War to today’s ongoing war on terrorism.

As secretary of defense under two presidents—Barack Obama and George W. Bush—and through two wars—Iraq and Afghanistan—Dr. Robert Gates will share his candid insights on global politics and world affairs, U.S. intelligence and defense strategies, leadership and leading change in a large institution and the global challenges of the 21st century – including the rising tensions in Asia and the implications of a nuclear-armed North Korea. Dr. Gates’ insights will help investors to better understand the backdrop in which we operate and invest.

Insights on Open Private Capital Programs

Palazzo D

As institutional investors seek long-term growth in an uncertain global equity market, the importance of allocations to strategies in private equity, venture capital and natural resources is heightened. This in-depth session by the investment team of Commonfund Capital will provide details on the new private capital programs currently being raised (available for existing and new investors) and distinct point of view that will guide each of these programs.

The Global Economy: What To Look For
Mediterranean Ballrooms 4/5

For much of the post crisis period, the world’s largest economies have fought tepid growth and low inflation with aggressive and largely coordinated monetary policy – and world equity markets have proven to be resilient and have surged. Today, U.S. growth, driven by strong corporate earnings is trending up, and the story is similar in Europe and Asia. But now, nine years into the recovery with many equity markets at or near all-time highs and central banks no longer priming the pump, many investors are questioning if this cycle has run its course. In our opening general session expert panelists will assess the state and outlook for the global economy and capital markets. Most importantly, they will offer perspectives on the signs long-term investors should be looking for to guide portfolio policies.

Panelists: Mark Anson, PhD, CIO, Commonfund; Nancy Lazar, Co-founder and Economist, Cornerstone Macro; Dr. Joshua Meltzer, Senior Fellow – Global Economy and Development, Brookings Institute; Dr. Dambisa Moyo, Economist and Author

CIO Roundtable:
Risks and More Risks
Mediterranean Ballrooms 4/5

While secular trends impact broad and long-term portfolio positioning, it is often cyclical and tactical insights that can contribute substantially to performance and reduce risk. From taking advantage of valuation inequities to employing quantitative strategies, the astute investor can, within their risk tolerances, generate outperformance. In this session, leading Chief Investment Officers provide their insights to where near and intermediate term opportunities may lie.

Panelists: Mary Cahill, former CIO, Emory University; Kim Lew, Vice President and CIO, Carnegie Corporation of New York; Mark A. Schmid, Vice President and CIO, The University of Chicago; Marc P. Seidner, CIO - Non-Traditional Strategies, PIMCO

Moderator: Mark Anson, PhD, CIO,Commonfund
ESG Investing Becomes Mainstream

Mediterranean Ballrooms 1/2

The Principles for Responsible Investment (PRI) now have more than 1,750 signatories, from over 50 countries, representing $70 trillion. Clearly, investors and asset managers around the world have embraced the Six Principles in theory. Less clear is how these investors are taking action and implementing the principles into their investment practices. In this session our experts will provide their insights into how the PRI is encouraging adoption and action as well as share real life case studies that can serve as a practical road map for incorporating ESG into policy portfolios.

Featured speakers Chris Fowle, Head of Americas, PRI and Cary Krosinsky, sustainability expert, author and educator at Yale University

How Dynamic Should your IPS be?
Palazzo A/B/C

Successful investing for long-term funds requires a strategic plan. This is true despite – indeed, because of – the fact that the future is unknowable. The plan must be specific, embodying in concrete terms the best thinking of the governing board about the investment pool, its goals and purposes; but it also needs to be sufficiently flexible to guide the board through environments that may be very different from those prevailing at the time of its adoption. Join this session for insights and discussion on how to strike the balance for your institution.

Panelists: Connie Cheng, Manager of Investments, Nuclear Electric Insurance; Leonard Gurin, Investment Committee Chair, Jewish Federation of Greater Indianapolis; Anthony Peretore, Managing Director, Commonfund

Moderator: Keith Luke, Managing Director, Commonfund

Natural Resources: The Changing Landscape and Capturing Compelling Opportunities
Palazzo D

The natural resources sector is often characterized as cyclical, as producers and service providers experience underlying exposure to and commensurate volatility of commodities in the oil and gas, mining and agriculture sectors. After a couple of years of challenging sector returns, some institutional investors are questioning what the role of natural resources should be in a portfolio and if now is a good time to invest in the asset class. In this session our panelists will explore current trends across the global energy complex and the broader natural resources sector. The focus will be on identifying the specific risks to avoid and the compelling tactical opportunities to be found, all in the context of the role this unique asset class can play in long-term portfolios.

Panelists: Cheryl Brandon, Partner, Investment Management, Waterton Global Resource Management; Arne Trondsen, Senior Partner, HitecVision

Moderator: Ethan Levine, Managing Director, Commonfund Capital
Institutional investors are tasked with building resilient portfolios to meet their long-term missions. Endowment and pension pools often have the longest time horizon of any investors. This affords them both the freedom and responsibility to prudently take advantage of the premium available from illiquid investments over liquid investments like public equities. While the premium does exist, it is not guaranteed. Capturing it requires significant resources, expertise and access to the best managers and strategies as well as superior portfolio construction and a commitment to the asset class. In this session, leading private equity and venture capital managers will discuss their unique approaches to investing in, and managing and growing, portfolio companies. They will provide insights into the current state of the private markets and their views going forward. The emphasis will be on arming investment committees with the information they need to position policy portfolios for long-term success. Commonfund Capital’s President & CEO Peter Burns will kick-off and moderate this discussion and share some observations about the industry as Commonfund celebrates 30 years of partnering with institutional investors in building resilient private capital programs.

Panelists: Swaroop “Kittu” Kolluri, Founder and Managing Partner, Neotribe Ventures; Raquel Palmer, Partner, KPS Capital Partners

Moderator: Peter Burns, President and CEO, Commonfund Capital
As fiduciaries, it is critical to build resilience into the investment portfolios for which we have oversight. Resilience can take the form of shorter-term tactical questions like; are diversified portfolios really diversified and will they stand the test of the next market turn? Or, perhaps even more importantly, longer-term questions such as; how can investors ensure that their policy portfolio is best aligned with the larger ecosystem of the institution? In this session Commonfund experts will share our research findings and techniques we are employing to help investors understand not just the characteristics of their portfolio in isolation but also the broader considerations and pressures that should shape risk, drawdown and recovery expectations over the long haul.

The Fallacy of “Impossible”

Mediterranean Ballrooms 4/5

Featured speaker Mick Ebeling, Founder and CEO, Not Impossible Labs; Author, Not Impossible: The Art and Joy of Doing What Couldn’t Be Done

Since the launch of the EyeWriter, an amazing technological tool that allowed a paralyzed graffiti artist to paint again using just his eyes, and Not Impossible Foundation, Mick Ebeling has passionately studied the concept of “impossible.” All the modern conveniences we see around us were once considered impossible by people who didn’t know any better. Synthetic fabrics, cell phones, and digital watches (not to mention cars and computers) were all figments of the imagination until inspiration met execution and the impossible became a reality. In this talk, Ebeling dives deeper into “impossible,” the underlying psychological effects it has on an organization, and how to overcome “impossible” so true innovation can take place.
The global order that prevailed since the end of the Second World War has hit its limits. A breakdown in longstanding domestic, regional, and international political equilibria is making policymakers both less able and less willing to collaborate internationally. The result: a G-Zero world characterized by a growing vacuum in global governance.

Ian Bremmer predicts a new world order that will succeed our G-Zero reality. The question, is whether citizens across the world will remain passive throughout this process, or take on a proactive role in determining what future they want to live in. This new world order will be characterized by three important developments:

1. The end of a cycle
2. The end of politics as you knew it
3. Saving global governance from the G-Zero

Mr. Bremmer will share his insights and views to help attendees understand the broader issues to consider as they formulate policy portfolios for the years ahead.
Navigating Secondaries
Focusing on Value and Quality
Mediterranean Ballrooms 1/2

Over the past decade the market for private capital secondaries has expanded and matured to the point where this powerful tool is used by many institutional investors. The potential benefits are numerous, from increasing the speed of distributions to minimizing the “j-curve”. In this session, you’ll gain insights into how a secondary market strategy can change the dynamics of your entire private capital program. What makes for a successful “secondaries” strategy and what should you look for? What are current market dynamics in terms of trends, pricing and supply? Our experts will address these questions and more.

Moderator: Anita Hariton, Managing Director, Commonfund Capital

Diversity and Emerging Managers
Palazzo A/B/C

Studies have shown that increased diversity can lead to more efficient information processing, improved decision-making and, ultimately, better outcomes. The value of diversity is increasingly recognized within the work place as well as educational institutions yet the idea of minority investing remains largely unadopted. Compounding the challenge, large established asset managers are getting bigger every day, making it more difficult for small, new and emerging managers to attract capital. In this session, our panel looks at the landscape of diverse and emerging managers to answer key questions, including, what is the alpha of diverse investing? Is it real? Is it accessible? And how can it be implemented in a policy portfolio?

Panelists: Gilbert A. Garcia, Managing Partner, Garcia, Hamilton & Associates; Renae Griffin, Director, GCM Grosvenor; Juan Martinez, VP/CFO and Treasurer, John S. & James L. Knight Foundation

Moderator: Caroline Greer, Managing Director, Commonfund
Nonprofit boards and investment committees are charged with the fiduciary responsibility to make informed decisions when guiding the investment activities of their organization. Since the early 2000’s the Commonfund Benchmarks Studies – the NACUBO-Commonfund Study of Endowments®, and the Council on Foundations-Commonfund Study of Foundations® – have been the acknowledged authority on the investment practices of U.S. educational institutions, private and community foundations, operating charities and healthcare organizations. In this session, our experts will share important and actionable insights from the studies to inform your decisions on investment and governance practices.

GENERAL SESSION
Global Investing: A World of Opportunities
Mediterranean Ballrooms 4/5

The equity allocation in a diversified portfolio is the primary driver of growth and is critical to achieving target returns and maintaining purchasing power over the long term. The Commonfund model of investing calls for active risk taking in equity portfolios and, further, allocating to uncorrelated sources of alpha wherever possible. This philosophy guides us towards: niche strategies; capacity constrained strategies, and; risk premia strategies driven by behavioral biases, to name a few examples. In this session, global investors will share insights into the unique strategies they pursue and where they are finding compelling public and private investment opportunities around the world.

Panelists: Nili Gilbert, Co-Founder and Portfolio Manager, Matarin Capital; Niall Paul, Head of International and Emerging Markets Equities, TT International; Jayendran Rajamony, PhD, Co-Portfolio Manager, Numeric Investors; Fred Schulte-Hillen, Co-Founder and Principal, Athos Capital

Endowments, Foundations and Healthcare Organizations with large pools of operating assets have faced significant challenges over the last several years from extremely low rates and an evolving regulatory environment. With reforms largely in place and interest rate policy moving toward normalization, CFO’s and Treasurers may be in a position to rethink and redesign their approach to short-term assets with an eye towards maximizing the effectiveness of their internal bank.

In this session, our panelists will explore the impact of regulatory changes, new techniques for policy portfolio design, and investment strategies that seek to maximize income, liquidity, and risk adjusted returns.

Fixed Income Balancing Act: Complementing Core with Credit Strategies
Palazzo A/B/C

The 30-year bull market in Treasury bonds was also a tailwind for investment grade bonds broadly—not to mention helping to lower financing costs for corporations and helping to boost corporate earnings. As the Fed begins the slow process of increasing interest rates back to a long run level as well as unwinding its balance sheet ballooned by QE, many institutional investors seeking CPI + 5% are wondering how best to position their fixed income portfolio. Investment grade bonds still have a place in the portfolio as shock absorbers should there be an equity market correction. However, there remain opportunities to earn solid returns in fixed income, particularly through the credit markets where the predominant risk is default risk, rather than interest rate risk. Our panel of experts will address current opportunities in credit markets with a particular focus on the specific approaches that can help to avoid the potential pitfalls of venturing out on the risk curve at this point in the cycle.

Panelists: Anup Agarwal, Head of MBS/ABS, WAMCO; Jim Meisner, Managing Director, Commonfund; Al Rabil, Co-Founder, Managing Partner and CEO, Kayne Anderson; Keith Read, Sr. Managing Director, Cerberus Capital
Moderator: Dana Moreau, Chief Risk Officer, Commonfund

Emerging Markets Unlocking the Growth Engine Through Private Capital
Palazzo D

After a few difficult years for Emerging Markets, they have bounced back to deliver double digit returns recently. A combination of attractive valuations versus developed markets, improving earnings and a renewed belief in the long-term promise of growth, powered by the expanding middle class of consumers, have all contributed to the rebound. Clearly, emerging markets can be an important contributor in portfolios targeting CPI + 5% returns, especially given muted expectations for developed market returns going forward. But, what is the best approach to harnessing the opportunity efficiently and effectively, while controlling for volatility? And, which countries, sectors and companies are best positioned to win? Our panel of investors will provide insights into the current opportunity set and how they are selectively tapping into emerging markets growth.

Investing in a Low(er) Carbon Economy

Mediterranean Ballrooms 4/5

A discussion with Dr. Robert B. Litterman, Commonfund Board Chair and founding partner, Kepos Capital and Robert E. Rubin, Former U.S. Treasury Secretary and Co-Chair Emeritus, Council on Foreign Relations

Moderated by Kate Gordon, Senior Advisor, Paulson Institute

Countries across the globe are increasingly feeling the impact of climate change. As a result, governments, individuals and the private sector are evaluating the need for more resilient and sustainable practices. One needs to look no further than China, the largest emitter of greenhouse gases, to see the speed of change. In 2015, China invested $103 billion into its domestic renewable energy sector – around 36 percent of new dollars invested globally (and more than twice the United States’ investment in renewables). This past year, China announced plans to invest another $361 billion in clean energy by 2020. But as this transition to a lower carbon economy picks up pace, there remains uncertainty regarding the impacts to investment portfolios. For example, will sustainable energy sources markedly increase their share of the energy mix? And, consequently, what are the impacts to traditional industry? And how will investors begin to evaluate the physical risk to companies and their supply chains as climate impacts like extreme heat and precipitation become more extreme? Our distinguished panel of experts will address some of the critical policy developments that could shape the global investment landscape for fiduciaries of nonprofit institutions. To what extent are meaningful changes taking place and at what speed? Should the long term challenges of climate change be incorporated into shorter-term investment decisions? Which countries, sectors and industries are best positioned to benefit, and which are most at risk? Most important, we’ll focus on helping fiduciaries better understand how the climate debate is unfolding and what implications there may be to investment portfolios.
